

"Hymns to Him"

Spring 2009

The 19th "Hymns to Him" concert was held at First Congregational Church the afternoon of April 19, 2009. The Spring concert featured organist Ron Rainey and pianist Larry Koepnick on duets including:

- Precious Memories
- He Touched Me
- Heaven Came Down and Glory Filled My Soul
- Precious Lord Take My Hand
- Dwelling In Beulah Land
- His Eye Is On The Sparrow
- Standing On The Promises
- Battle Hymn of the Republic
- Because He Lives
- My Tribute

A special performance was provided by operatic bass Benjamin Stansberry accompanied by Arlene Selby. Stansberry's performance included "An die Musik" by Schober; and "Thus Saith The Lord" recitative for Bass and "But Who May Abide The Day Of His Coming" Air for Bass by G.F. Handel.

The concert also featured a moving duet "I See, I Hear, I Know" performed by Jonna & Wayne Wagar who were accompanied by Arlene Selby on piano and Krystal Randall on flute.

